

CPAS Passes ISO 12-Month Surveillance Audit

Toronto, ON – September 23rd, 2011, CPAS Systems Inc. is pleased to announce it has successfully completed its ISO (International Organization for Standardization) 9001:2008 Surveillance Audit by SAI Global, an independent third-party auditor.

The audit tested CPAS' conformity to the ISO 9001:2008 standard. The objective of the audit was to determine continuing compliance of CPAS' Quality Management System (QMS) with the audit criteria and its effectiveness in achieving continual improvement and system objectives.

Based on the evidence and the findings of the audit, performed by SAI Global, CPAS' QMS has been deemed to be well maintained, in accordance with the requirements of the ISO 2001:2008 standard.

"The ISO 9001:2008 standard, which is recognized around the world, is extremely comprehensive. This reassures our customers that CPAS maintains consistency in all phases of our operations and demonstrates CPAS' continued worldwide commitment to our clients and our quality of service." said Liam Robertson, CPAS ISO Executive.

"We're extremely pleased to have gone through the surveillance without a single major or minor finding. It speaks volumes about our focus in creating and implementing a Quality Management System which provides for continuous improvements in product development, support quality, increased customer satisfaction, and a dedicated, systematic approach to overall quality management".
